Keynotes

- Day 1: Thursday, September 25: Amelia Rose Earhart
  - Learn to Love the Turbulence
  - It would be great if all our goals could be reached without any disruption, but the reality is reaching new heights requires us to get comfortable with the possibility of turbulence. Preparedness and understanding are the strongest antidotes to turbulence. Professional speaker, pilot, author, and artist Amelia Rose Earhart learned these lessons while preparing to circumnavigate the globe. In 2014, she completed her goal: circumnavigating the globe along a 28,000 nautical mile route, all in a single-engine aircraft. This modern-day Amelia Earhart says the most important lesson she learned during her journey is that to truly succeed, and also grow along the way, we need to learn to love life's turbulence by staying agile amidst the storms that inevitably pop up along each of our paths. Earhart shares what it takes to create a solid flight plan to reach any goal, identify and assess risk, and formulate backup plans to prepare for disruption, adversity, and challenges.
- Day 2: Friday, September 26: Kimberly A. Hoy, JD, CPC
  - The Beat Never Stops: Keeping Abreast of Ever-Changing Codes and Edits
  - Medicare is not just annual final rules: Updates come fast and furious throughout the year. How do you not only keep up but take advantage of all the Medicare information coming out to enhance your revenue integrity efforts? This session will demonstrate how to analyze the quarterly releases from Medicare to keep your chargemaster up to date, avoid billing delays, and find rebilling opportunities. Decode CMS jargon in the quarterly Integrated Outpatient Code Editor Specifications, Outpatient Prospective Payment System transmittals, and other quarterly and periodic update resources.

Networking

- Reconnect with colleagues and strike up new friendships during our networking reception at the end of Day 1, 4:30 p.m. – 5:54 p.m.
