

NAHRI
presents

REVENUE INTEGRITY WEEK

June 1–5, 2020

WHAT IS REVENUE INTEGRITY WEEK?

A national week of recognition for revenue integrity professionals presented by the National Association of Healthcare Revenue Integrity (NAHRI) to support and celebrate the revenue integrity profession.

WHAT SHOULD WE DO TO CELEBRATE?

Get your team into the Revenue Integrity Week spirit by planning your event now. Dress up as Revenue Integrity Investigators and help solve the Case of the Missing Revenue! Take a look at the list of suggested activities under the activities menu. Give a superstar colleague a shout-out with a certificate of recognition! Test your revenue integrity knowledge with our Revenue Integrity Week crossword and word find.

As part of their 2019 Revenue Integrity Week celebrations, Duke University Health System sported their own Revenue Integrity Week t-shirts using logos provided by NAHRI.

As part of their 2019 Revenue Integrity Week celebrations, Duke University Health System's revenue integrity teams donated 8,337 food items to people in need in the Durham community.

Next, print out our Revenue Integrity Week poster and take a staff photo to celebrate. Hand out fliers to others in your facility and use our press release to spread the word.

In years past, revenue integrity departments hosted internal celebrations, educational seminars, local food drives, and more.

Visit nahri.org/revenue-integrity-week to access the activities.

WHAT IS THE NAHRI PEER RECOGNITION PROGRAM?

NAHRI supports the professional accomplishments of revenue integrity professionals. If someone you work alongside has gone above and beyond—be it a promotion, great idea, or helping hand—we want to help you give that person a shout out. Revenue Integrity Week is the perfect time to recognize your peers for their valuable contributions to the field and for the ways they have helped others. Nominate a peer today at: www.surveymonkey.com/r/VQGDWPF.

Certificates of recognition will be distributed to all who are nominated by peers and will be published on the NAHRI website, in Revenue Integrity Insider, and in the NAHRI Journal to help raise awareness about the dedication of revenue integrity professionals. All nominees and nominators will be entered into a drawing with the winners announced during Revenue Integrity Week.

NAHRI Peer Recognition Program drawing winners celebrate Revenue Integrity Week with complimentary cake from NAHRI at WakeMed Business Center (top) and WakeMed Raleigh Campus (bottom).

WHAT IS THE NAHRI STATE OF THE INDUSTRY SURVEY?

NAHRI is asking its members and subscribers to offer their insights on how the revenue integrity profession is changing and growing for its State of the Industry Survey. The survey looks at topics such as background and experience, revenue integrity functions, chargemaster maintenance, charge reconciliation, and revenue monitoring.

Review the report with your team to see how you compare to revenue integrity programs across the country. The survey report will be released during Revenue Integrity Week at nahri.org/revenue-integrity-week.

CAN WE USE THE REVENUE INTEGRITY WEEK LOGO AND POSTERS AT OUR FACILITY?

YES! We encourage revenue integrity professionals to download the poster and logo and to include it in email signatures, in Revenue Integrity Week materials, and even as office decorations.

Last year, organizations even printed the Revenue Integrity Week logo onto shirts to wear during internal celebrations. Get creative!

Visit nahri.org/revenue-integrity-week to download our Twitter and Facebook banners and suggested posts and use them on your social media accounts with the hashtag #revenueintegrityweek to promote your team. Then share with us on social media photos of what you are doing to celebrate! Find us on Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn!

