FOR SUCCESS

JUNE 1–5, 2026

When planning your Revenue Integrity Week celebration, consider the following recommendations from NAHRI:

- ▶ Plan a team outing to see a performance at a local theater.
- ▶ Invite team members to submit their favorite play, musical, concert, or other performance and then hold a fun contest to see who can match the most submissions to the correct team member.
- ▶ Hold a fundraiser benefitting a local community theater or community theater program for at-risk and underserved youth.
- ▶ Use the NAHRI crossword puzzle, word search, and other items from our 2026 Revenue Integrity Toolkit to run a friendly competition among your department and colleagues from other departments. Whoever finishes the quickest and gets the most correct gets a prize—or bragging rights! Answer keys are provided.
- ▶ Ask your team members to submit photos of themselves with a brief bio and a few facts. Create a PowerPoint or post and share it systemwide.
- ▶ Send virtual or physical thank-you cards to your team and other colleagues who work closely with you.
- ▶ Register for NAHRI's 2026 State of the Revenue Integrity webinar. Share the registration information with your team and other colleagues who may be interested in attending.
- ▶ Download NAHRI's 2026 State of the Revenue Integrity Industry Survey Report and distribute it to your team. Schedule a time to discuss what the results mean to your facility.
- ▶ If you're a NAHRI member, be on the lookout for a free resources in our special daily Revenue Integrity Week edition of our enewsletter, Revenue Integrity Insider. Not a member? Become one at our special discounted rate.
- ▶ Use the hashtag #RevenueIntegrityWeek on social media to make sure your followers are aware of your celebration.
- ▶ Print out a Revenue Integrity Week poster to display as you participate in video conferences or at your facility. The toolkit also offers logos that you can use on your email signatures, social media accounts, and more as you celebrate Revenue Integrity Week! Some members even use these logos for t-shirts, mugs, and more.
